Encouraging Drawing
Following on from the children’s interest in drawing and painting at the easel last week, we provided them with some new thick markers and large sheets of paper. Although there was limited choice of colours a group of children quickly gathered to chat, share, and build their pictures, taking turns using the very large markers. This provided opportunity for negotiation and developing an understanding of each other’s space and valuing each other’s creativity. Some drew independently while others enjoyed sharing their paper with friends. The children allowed their imaginations to roam and enjoyed sharing their ideas and drawings with each other.
